Two students win national education prizes

Member for Rankin, Craig Emerson has congratulated two local students whose academic achievement has earned them a 2010 Australian Student Prize.

The Australian Student Prize is awarded annually to 500 young Australians in recognition of their excellence in academic achievements, with winners nominated by state and territory education authorities.

The successful students in Rankin were Andrew Feng of Stretton and Bianca Kwan of Calamvale who will receive a certificate and an award of $2000 from the Australian Government.

Mr Emerson said, 'The local community should be very proud that two local students have been selected for this award from a very high class of achievers throughout the nation.'
